Description

The Denton House is a rectangular two story wood frame structure. This vernacular Greek Revival residence has rectangular windows with shutters and asbestos over clapboard siding. Numerous additions have been made to the original structure, including a lean-to in the rear. A Victorian porch extends along the entire west and south facades. The interior of the building is presently under renovation.

Significance

Date of Construction ca. 1850
Architect/Builder

The Denton House is significant as an example of 19th Century mortise and tenon joinery.
